

Who wants to build a raft & star in their own movie?

Or climb a 25ft wall? Or trek across Dartmoor? Or maybe even meet Cornwall's own sailing hero, Pete Goss? These are the sort of dream activities Delaware Adventure Zone for Learning (DAZL) organizes for young people every term.

DAZL is a key centre in Cornwall's Playing for Success initiative. Every year, this scheme educates & inspires 100s of local children to believe in themselves and make the most of the world around them. We've seen children transformed by attending our courses here.

Your child can join the fun, too. It's on your doorstep, and it's ALL FREE!

Any questions?

Who runs the scheme?

DAZL is run by former head teacher, Pat Brunskill, with help from Cornwall Outdoors instructors.

Sounds like fun, but will it really help educate my child?

Outdoor adventures and teamwork make children much more receptive in class. We do an activity then see what we can learn from it indoors. This can be English, maths or ICT-based. It's a proven, effective approach that delivers results time and again.

What about safety?

All staff are CRB checked, all instructors are professionally qualified. Your child's safety and happiness is always top priority.

When's it on?

3.30-6.60pm, school days. You go once a week for up to 8 weeks.

How do we get there?

We collect your child from school, but because DAZL is completely free, you'll need to arrange transport home.

I'd like to find out more. Who do I ask? Feel free to phone or email Pat. She'll be happy to answer all your questions.

Last words...

We could keep going on about the brilliant times children have at the Delaware Adventure Zone for Learning. Instead, we thought we'd leave it to someone who knows best:

'I learned loads of new stuff at Delaware. It was really fun. We had once in a lifetime chances to do loads of exciting things like go to Dartmoor. I would love to come here, again and again... forever!'
